

Transform the Way Your Users Work with Office 365 E5 Suite

Productivity. Collaboration. They are two of the latest buzz words in the IT industry. So it comes as no surprise that Microsoft's Office 365 E5 suite offers productivity and collaboration capabilities, as well as new features—Skype for Business services (for real-time communication), Power BI and analytics, and new advanced security—aimed at transforming the way your end-users work.

The E5 suite is completely integrated, allowing businesses to truly create and take advantage of a cooperative business environment. For CIOs making the decision to purchase E5, while there is a huge benefit in having all these features in one bundle, the larger question they should be asking is: How can I maximize the return on this investment?

The answer: to transform the way end-users work. This is achieved by providing employee software coaching and training to users. By educating and making users aware of how each individual application can be best utilized, and by understanding how the applications work together, users will be able to be more proficient, more productive and more collaborative.

The good news for CIOs: you don't have to go it alone. Vitalyst can help achieve this simple, yet powerful goal of full adoption through a number of service offerings. For more information, please contact Vitalyst today.
